

Daniel Wilder

*Founder and President of Safety Instruct,
CTO of High Reliability Training, Inc., and High Reliability Partners, LLC.*

Daniel's passion for safety and education centers on storytelling and creating an impact through video. A seasoned professional specializing in course, software, and video development within the Environmental Health, Safety, Human Resources and Human and Organizational Performance sectors. His focus lies in creating engaging, video-based training that reconnects employees with human-centered learning, enhanced by interactive software and data management. Over his twenty-year career, Daniel has developed thousands of video-based courses, managed training development across various industries, and delivered training to more than a million employees. He has also crafted numerous customized training programs and advanced online reporting to meet rigorous compliance and accreditation standards, with a strong expertise in OSHA, DOT, and EPA regulatory requirements.

Through the years, Daniel has been blessed to partner with a variety of clients to create unique experiences in training that resonate with the organization, specializing in long term comprehension and retention of challenging topics.

Living in Tennessee with his wife Christy and their children, Heidi and Isaac, Daniel balances his professional life with family activities like dance, soccer, martial arts, and travel. His work not only aims to improve organizational training practices but also enriches his personal commitment to continuous learning and development.
